

I am married with four children, I was in the British Army for 13 years and I have been living in Westbury since 2014. I wanted to be a Town Councillor to contribute and make a difference to the community, provide young people in the community with motivation and to make Westbury a good and proud place to live in.